Excerpt: .By this exceedingly ingenious and novel mode, very contrary advantages may be obtained at will; and the inconvenience attending glazed doors entirely obviated. In the centre of the Court, which descends to the level of the basement story, is a kind of trophy composed of a capital of an Hindoo column and of other architectural fragments; besides which, it contains several pieces of sculpture: and on the north side, opposite the window of the Eating-room, is an elegant Grecian scroll ornament surmounted by a vase; the effect of which, as seen from the apartment just mentioned, is strictly architectural. From the Breakfast-room there are four doors of communication to the Museum, one of which, at the north-west angle, opens to a small Cabinet, with a coved sky-light, which is ornamented with a miscellaneous collection of sculpture, bronzes, bas-reliefs, c. At the end an opening has been made in the floor, to admit a view into a part of the lower gallery, or crypt; thus we may perceive that even a space of a few feet may be so arranged as to produce a singularly striking effect. Like the Breakfast-room, this closet opens into the Museum, which we will now cursorily examine. From the multiplicity of objects with which it is stored, and from the intricacy of its plan, a stranger must view the scene with astonishment, and can hardly know where first to direct his attention. It may be considered as consisting of several...
